Project Introduction

“The Little Monster’s Emotion Maze”

An interactive storybook app guiding children’s emotional management

Target Audience: Ages 5–8

Core Concept:

- Transforms abstract emotions into observable, actionable experiences
- Based on narrative therapy and mindfulness principles
- Four emotion mazes: Anger, Sadness, Fear, Joy

UX Design Principles

Color Psychology as Narrative Tool

- Each emotion mapped to distinct, carefully calibrated color palette
- Anger → Volcanic Red | Sadness → Soft Gray | Fear → Night Blue | Joy → Honey Yellow

Child-Centered Design

- Soft, rounded visual language with low-contrast shadows
- Touch targets $\geq 40\text{px} \times 40\text{px}$ for motor control accuracy
- High-contrast text (white on emotion-specific backgrounds)

Home Scene: Central Hub Design

Key UX Features:

- Moro as emotional proxy at center
- Four rectangular emotion portals with high-contrast labels
- Low-saturation warm green background (non-competing)
- Autonomous emotion selection empowers children

Anger Maze: Deep Breathing Practice

Regulation Mechanic: “Take Deep Breaths” button (5 taps)

UX Highlights:

- Unified red color filter creates heated atmosphere
- Real-time progress counter: “0/5 breaths”
- Flames dim progressively with each breath

Sadness Maze: Memory & Cognitive Reframing

Regulation Mechanic: Reveal 4 happy memory cards

UX Highlights:

- Gray-cyan palette evokes quiet heaviness with spark of hope
- White “?” cards provide clear interactive cues
- 3D flip animation reveals colorful memories

Fear Maze: Gradual Light Revelation

Regulation Mechanic: “Turn On Light” button (4 lamps)

UX Highlights:

- Deep, dark backdrop mirrors feeling of fear
- Each lamp activation brightens scene by 15–20%
- Moro’s trembling decreases as light spreads

Joy Maze: Emotional Balance Practice

Regulation Mechanic: “Calm Down” button (6 taps)

UX Highlights:

- Warm golden-orange backdrop radiates cheerful energy
- Scene dynamics slow progressively (bouncing settles, sparkles fade)

Achievement Celebration:

“Emotion Hero!”

UX Highlights:

- Warm peach-beige background with floating golden confetti
- Moro radiates pure joy (earned through completion)
- Positive reinforcement with emotional closure
